

Peace, Health and Medical Work

Autumn semester 2014,
10 ECTS

'Peace, Health and Medical Work' (HEL-3011) is an elective module at the University of Tromsø, offered to students who are interested in health-related peace and conflict work.

As the world's first of its kind, this Master-level module creates awareness about the peace building capacities of health professionals before, during and after violence.

Peace, Health and Medical Work

Topics included in the course:

- Peace and conflict theory
- Mechanisms of medical peace work
- Nonviolent communication
- Disarmament and arms control
- Violence prevention
- Structural violence and health
- Conflict transformation and mediation
- International Humanitarian Law
- Do No Harm in international work
- Cultural and context sensitivity
- Reconciliation and health

All lectures in week 47, November 17th – 21st

Registration deadlines:

Self-financing free-movers: April 15th
Singular course for Nordic students: June 1st
Elective module for UiT students: Sept. 1st

See: HEL-3011 and freemovers

Contact:

kari.j.lagreid@uit.no
tordis.sorensen.hoifodt@unn.no

